Vital Information Is Missing From Many Resumes

One of the biggest complaints by candidates is they send their resume out and never hear anything back. They reply to ads and they end up in a black hole.

One of recruiters and hiring managers biggest complaints is they receive so many worhtless resumes that most go in the trash.

Why does this happen to resumes.

Simply put most candidates leave off vital information recruiters and hiring managers need to make a good decision. This short vide explains what vital information needs to be on your resume.